GENERAL BOOTH,

The Grand Commander of the Salvation Army,

Who Has Just Arrived in this Country For the Purpose of Inspecting the Forces—Sketch of His Useful Life.

William Booth was born in Notting ham, England, April 8, 1829. From an early age his tendencies were religious. At thirteen he left the Church of England, and joined the Methodists. It was at the evangelistic meetings of Rev. James Caughey, an American minister, that he first received the potent influence that determined his career. At the early age of seventeen, the General was an accredited lay preacher, with a reputation for evangelistic preaching and two years later would have yielded to the persuasion of his superintending minister and entered the ministry but for feeble health. For about eighteen months he was wholly engaged in preaching in London and the suburbs, and at twenty-four, owing to a violent controversy having arisen in the Wesleyan society, he entered the Methodist new connection, by whom he was regularly stationed in London. It was about this time that he was married.

Mrs. Booth has always been in hearty sympathy with the work and has brought to the General's assistance many qualities and suggestions of value. She has preached and conducted meetings at most from the inception of the organization, besides writing books and pamphlets for the education of the army and defending it from criticism.

Gen. Booth lives in a modest house at Clifton, in East London, near the Training Home for male and female officers. He has nine children, all but one of whom, an invalid, are engaged in Salvation Army work.

The Salvation Army was started in 1865, in East London, and for some time its existence was of a most primitive nature. Dance houses, tents and often only the open air were their places of worship. The cause grew beyond conjecture. The last report shows that on May 28, 1886, there were 1552 corps, composed of 3912 men and women, of which 920 corps and 422 officers belong in the United States. The War Cry, the official organ of the Salvation Army, has a total circulation of over half a million copies.

The work in the United States was first started in Cleveland, O., in 1872 but did not get a good foothold till 1879 when it sprang up in Boston and Philadelphia and in a few months the building in half a mile, half blacksmith's shop, adjoining the U. S. Furniture and Chair Manufacturing, Philadelphia, the Salvation Army had its first home in this country. The movement quickly spread until its present proportions were reached.

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Encouraging Reports From Several Doubtful Districts.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 1.—The Democratic State Executive committee has reports from all the counties of the Tenth district whose convention yesterday re-elected Frank Hurd for Congress and reports cheer in the assurance that he cannot be defeated this time. There is a determination on the part of the Democrats of the district that a Republican shall not again represent the Democratic Tenth. Harmony has been restored and Hurd will be elected.

General Warner was renominated by acclamation at Marietta by the Congressional convention of the Fifteenth district. He accepted the nomination and promised to make a fight to win, notwithstanding the 2,000 Republican majority he has to overcome in the district. The fight will be bitter between him and General Grosvenor. General Warner carried the district four years ago when the same five counties composed it.

The Seventeenth district promises some surprises. Kennon, the Democratic candidate, is a prominent granger, and will cut deep into Taylor's vote.

Married.

By Rev. P. Herbruck, on the 26th of September, Mr. Frank Garoux and Miss Elizabeth A. Rose, both of Stark county.

By Rev. P. Herbruck, on the 29th of September, Mr. Solomon Klopstein and Miss Louisa Crest, both of Stark county.

By Rev. P. Herbruck, on the 30th of September, Mr. Frank Myers and Miss Emma Bollinger, both of Stark county.

On Wednesday, September 29th, by Rev. L. F. Meyer, Mr. John F. Steinman and Miss Elizabeth Hines, both of Stark county.

On Wednesday, September 29th, by Rev. L. F. Meyer, Mr. John L. Miller and Miss Marina D. Johnson. The parties reside in this county.

On Thursday, September 30th, by Rev. L. F. Meyer, Mr. Jacob Aldinger and Miss Nancy Neiswanger. They are both residents of Stark county.

Mr. Christian C. Kropp and Miss Elizabeth Kropp, both of Summit county, were married by Rev. P. Herbruck, on September 30, 1886.

Unlike other cathartics, Dr. Pierce's "Pellels" do not render the bowels constipated after operation, but, on the contrary, establish a permanently healthy action. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. By druggists.

THE Buckeye Vidette thus tears off the cloak of hypocrisy worn by McKinley: McKinley spoke and voted against the Morrison bill and conspired with rascally senators to frame a thing that mocked at the popular demand for the paying out of the surplus on the bonds. Regard less of this fact—a record he cannot wipe out—he presumed on the ignorance of the convention that nominated him on the 7th inst., and went into confessions because Cleveland had not paid more of the bonds. This is sneaking, bare-faced fraud. When he says he wants the bonds paid and at the same time that the national bank system must be maintained because of its secure basis on national credit, he lies one way or another. He shows the two faced lawyer—the rascal.

THE PITFALL

Into Which Foraker Has Stumbled and is Still Foundering.

Special Dispatch to the Enquirer.

COLUMBUS, O., September 29.—Johnny Francis, the angel who is serving a fifteen years' sentence for amusing himself by murdering a policeman in Dayton, and who is alleged to have been "poisoned" on Sunday night, is announced to be out of danger.

It seems from his surroundings that Private Secretary Kurtz and Executive Clerk Beaton, having induced and compelled Francis to make a affidavit to certain things, are not anxious to get rid of him. The water bucket from which Francis drank his "poison" hung on the inside of his cell at night. He was protected by Republican bolts and locks and by Republican guards, and the other convicts were all locked in their cells. Who poisoned his water? Governor Foraker should pardon Francis at once and not permit him to be killed in prison.

Governor Foraker is sick to-day. They say that when Francis heard that the Governor was sick, he said: "Has he been poisoned?" and when told that he was not, said: "My God, none of us are safe."

Probably somebody has dropped some "subliminal" of something into Governor Foraker's scruples and upset his sensitive nature. He will be a good deal sicker than he is before he hears the last of this Irish and negro case business and his association with criminals for the purpose of smirching the character and reputation of honest Democrats.

Deputy Warden Marriott and Dr. Montgomery have both been indicted by the Grand Jury for malfeasance in office upon the testimony of the convicts taken before the Grand Jury and corroborative testimony taken from the prison records. Things promise very lively in this section of the country when the Grand Jury makes its report.

Governor Foraker's heart will be broken when he finds that some prominent Democrats have not been indicted for forgeries that they never committed; but, after he has calmly viewed the situation, and come into possession of fuller information, he will thank his God that these men were not indicted impartially and ably. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the State platform and the national platform of 1884, denouncing the Republican maladministration and Foraker's use of convict testimony, commending McBride and the rest of the State ticket. T. S. Arnold, editor of the Leetonia Democrat, acted as secretary. The following names were placed in nomination for congressmen:

McKINLEY'S OPPONENT.
W. H. Phelps, of Alliance, the Democratic Nominee for Congress.

ALLIANCE, September 30.—The Democratic convention of the Eighteenth congressional district, embracing Stark, Columbiana, Mahoning and Carroll counties, met in Goddard's rink in Alliance. Judge Thomas, of Youngstown, was chairman. He presided throughout impartially and ably. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the State platform and the national platform of 1884, denouncing the Republican maladministration and Foraker's use of convict testimony, commending McBride and the rest of the State ticket. T. S. Arnold, editor of the Leetonia Democrat, acted as secretary. The following names were placed in nomination for congressmen:

Ex-Congressman Wallace was placed in nomination and unanimously seconded, but Judge Wallace being present declined to accept and explanatory speech. On ex-Lieut. G. V. Warwick being named, Mr. Cole said he was authorized by Mr. Warwick to say that he could not be a candidate under any circumstances. Dr. Lewis, Judge Thomas and A. McGregor were each in turn named, but each gentleman declined. Mr. Wallace was again tried but it was useless, and therefore Mr. Warwick was nominated by acclamation but on notification by telephone he declined. Dr. J. V. Lewis and Wallace H. Phelps, of the Alliance Leader, were then placed in nomination and balloted for. Before the result was announced Lewis withdrew and Phelps was made the nominee unanimously. He then addressed the convention briefly, pledging himself to an aggressive campaign against McKinley. Lewis also spoke in response to calls. Phelps is a young, energetic man and the editor of the Democratic organ of eastern Stark. The following is the congressional committee of this district for the coming two years: Stark county, L. C. Cole, J. T. Black and W. H. Phelps; Mahoning county, J. M. Webb and Dr. Schiller; Columbiana county, J. H. Wallace and W. S. Potts; Carroll county, Dr. McElroy.

Nothing Like It.

No medicine has ever been known so effective in the cure of all those diseases arising from an impure condition of blood as Scovill's Sarsaparilla, or Blood and Liver Syrup, for the cure of scrofula, white swellings, rheumatism, pimples, blotches, eruptions, venereal sores and diseases, consumption, goitre, boils, cancers and all kindred diseases. No better means of securing a beautiful complexion can be obtained than by using Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup, which cleanses the blood and gives beauty to the skin.

Fortson-Frick.

William A. Fortson, Jr., and Miss Abigail O. Frick, were united in marriage Thursday night at the home of the bride in Wooster. The bride is beautiful and accomplished, a favorite in Wooster society. The groom is an enterprising young man and at present a partner in the Frick & Co. flour mill of Canton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. M. Heindel, pastor of the English Lutheran Church of Wooster. The couple left on the midnight train for Canton, where they will make their future home.

Have You Taken S. L. S.?

Then can you do good by communicating to others an unfailing cure for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness and Kidney affections.

Having suffered from debility, headache, dizziness and loss of appetite, from an irritable liver, Simmons' Liver Regulator was recommended by a friend. Procuring a bottle, I was greatly benefited in a short time, and consider it an almost indispensable household remedy. J. M. DETTNER, William Penn P. O., Montgomery Co., Pa.

Valuable Horses Killed.

ALLIANCE, O., Sept. 30.—Last night twenty valuable horses en route to the Philadelphia market broke from a freight car while in motion near Columbus, on the Erie Wayne railroad. The train was insecurely fastened. Several were killed and many injured. The consignees were Miller & Ziegler of Alliance.

HON. PHINEAS C. LOUNSBURY,

The Republican Candidate for Governor of Connecticut.

Born on a Farm, He Works His Own Way in Life Up to His Present Station—A Brief Biographical Sketch.

In nominating Hon. Phineas C. Lounsbury as their candidate for Governor, the Republicans of Connecticut have made a selection in every way worthy of the party and of the State. Few men in Connecticut enjoy in a larger degree the confidence and respect of voters of all classes than Mr. Lounsbury. Born on a farm in Fairfield county forty-six years ago, he made his own way in life, having for twenty years been engaged, in connection with his brother, in the manufacture of boots and shoes. He served as a volunteer in the Union army during the war of the rebellion, and at one time was brought to death's door from disease contracted in the service. About a year since he accepted the presidency of the Merchants' Exchange National Bank of New York City temporarily, until a successor could be chosen. While he had not been conspicuously active in politics, he has always been an earnest Republican, and has honored all calls upon him for such aid as he could render. Two years ago he was a prominent candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, but when it went elsewhere he "turned in" heartily for his successful competitor, and by his many courtesies increased his popularity with the rank and file of his party. With a business reputation absolutely irreproachable, a friend of the working classes, and in sympathy with every effort to promote the public morals, it is believed that he will receive the support of many outside of the party whose standard he carries.

FORAKER'S WITNESSES.

Governor J. B. Foraker's witnesses to the atrocious charge made by him in his speech are a fine set. One is the horse thief convict Nye, who was a Republican before he got into the penitentiary and who will vote the Republican ticket when Foraker pardons him not in return for his perjured statement. Bad as Nye is however he is not the worst of them.

Savanne is another of Foraker's penitentiary scoundrels. This fellow was sent from Erie county for an attempt at rape. He was a fisherman of the lowest instincts, a bully and a savage brute. He and three other brutes made the atrocious assault, were caught in the act, tried, found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for fifteen years. The judge gave them the full limit of the law and said he would have sent them up for ninety-nine years if he could.

This brute was accustomed to beat his wife until her screams could be heard all over the neighborhood, but his neighbors feared him as he threatened to burn their property if they interfered with him. He debauched his own daughter and when his wife reproached him for the act, he beat her and kicked her, crushing in the bones of her face. The poor woman, as the only relief from a life of torment with this savage brute, took poison and died. When these facts became known, a mob gathered and would have hanged Savanne had the Sheriff not smuggled him away and saved him from death.

This monster is the authority for the atrocious charge the Governor of Ohio makes against men of character and well established reputations. Mr. Foraker hopes to gain a partisan advantage by going into the penitentiary and procuring an affidavit from this black hearted wretch, upon the authority of which he publicly charges reputable citizens with an atrocious act.

Would perjury be anything to a monster like this man Savanne? Would such a hardened wretch hesitate to forswear himself? How quickly would he make affidavit to any damnable story for a pardon. He is the chief witness that Foraker summons to support his horrible charges. This incestuous wife-beater and brute, who never in his life respected any law of God or man, is placed against the word of honorable men, and the people are asked to believe what he says is true.

Such are the political
